Eyre Biobotanics Range

Triple Action Facial Scrub - 150ml bottle = £25.00

This invigorating facial scrub lifts away dulling dead skin cells and pore-clogging dirt and oil to restore a radiant matte complexion. Botanical scrubbing particles, refining granules and micro beads deliver triple-action cleansing, preparing skin for a closer shave and promoting healthy cell renewal. So sounds like rocket science right? Well I have to say having tested the Eyre facial scrub, my skin did feel much smoother and looked much healthier.

Being totally organic the scrub contains Triglycerides from certified organic Jojoba. This helps to regulate sebum production and restore natural pH levels and minimize oiliness, particularly in the T-Zone around the forehead, nose and chin. Palmitoleic Fatty Acid from certified organic Macadamia which easily penetrates skin to reduce dryness and encourage cell regeneration.

It also contains Bisabolol from certified organic German Chamomile to help reduce the appearance of pores and hinder the development of skin blemishes such as blackheads. And finally Xanthophyll from certified organic Calendula which is a carotenoid and powerful anti-oxidant that soothes irritated skin and protects DNA against free radical damage.

Now you'd think being totally organic it would smell of flowers, you'd think being for men they'd choose butch flowers like thistles, but no, in fact the whole range of products has an almost overpowering smell of bleach and considering it contains no chemicals it stinks of them. That's the down side because as it goes I found the entire range superb, it genuinely improved my overall skin condition and people did comment on how great my skin was looking.

Absolute Shaving System - 150ml bottle = £24.00

A breakthrough two-part application for sensitive skin, formulated to provide the world's best shaving experience. The Lemon Myrtle Shaving Oil penetrates to protect sensitive skin from razor burn; the Kunzea Shaving Cream provides a rich cooling mask which softens stubble and provides long-lasting surface lubrication. This clever two layer approach delivers the closest and most comfortable shave possible.

The unique two layer approach soothes, protects and helps lubricate your face, counteracting and preventing razor burn and in-growing hairs.

There's again an Ingredients list that reads more like a pagan rite than a cosmetic product. Geraniol from Wild Harvest Lemon Myrtle is rich in citral which helps to eliminate bacteria that can lead to in-grown hairs. Globulol from Wild Harvest Kunzea has strong dermal penetrating properties to provide lasting lubrication and protection from irritation. Triacylglycerols from certified organic Macadamia reappear in the shaving system as it's easily absorbed into the skin providing excellent lubrication and preventing post shave dryness and irritation. And finally Squalene from certified organic Wheat Germ being the rich emollient that penetrates extremely well into the skin is used again to aid lubrication and to soften.

I got a wicked close shave with almost no post shave dryness and my skin felt softer than a baby's bum (not that I've ever touched a baby's bum, but it's a phrase people!). Well worth the money for a seriously good product.

All products are available to order online at www.eyrebiobotanics.com and are well worth the investment, and the slightly unpleasant smell, as they really work.
